COMMON CORE STANDARDS

You may have heard teachers and school staff talk in past years about aligning curriculum to Washington State Standards. Each state in the U.S. has their own educational standards which set the scope and sequence of skills that students should have mastered by the time they finish each grade. Read more at:

www.k12.wa.us/CurriculumInstruct/learningstandards.aspx.

Of course, having separate standards for each state leads to gaps in curriculum and instruction between states. In the past few years, the National Governors Association, the Council of Chief State School Officers, and other education leaders have worked to develop a set of standards for students nationwide. These have become known as the Common Core Standards.

The Common Core Standards are a progression of skills that students learn as they move through their K-12 school years. These standards focus on math and language arts. They are not a curriculum per se, and they do not dictate that particular textbooks or literature be used; these are still decisions to be made by teachers, schools and districts. A key difference with the Common Core Standards is that they require teaching that delves more deeply into a subject, rather than trying to cover many areas in a superficial way. As we examine the standards, we notice that there are differences in when certain content should be taught. For example, students are expected to read and be able to discuss more complex text at an earlier level. There is more of a focus on informational text (non-fiction) than has been seen in past state standards.

This year is our state's first year in rolling out the new Smarter Balanced Assessment Consortium (SBAC) assessment that aligns with the Common Core. To assess that students are mastering the skills in the Common Core, the assessment will look less like multiple choice and involve more analyzing and synthesizing of information, to show that students have a deep understanding of the material. The SBAC replaces the MSP that was used in the past, although 5th-grade students will take the science MSP.

If you would like more information about the Common Core, please check out the PTA website at www.tmlink.org for more resources and join us for our parent coffee, at 9:15 am Monday, March 9 when we welcome Kathleen Vasquez, Literacy specialist for Seattle Schools, as she discusses our transition to the SBAC.

Here's to developing strong skills for all of our students!

Connecting Before Correcting: Parents Learn Positive Discipline at PTA Meeting

At last week's PTA meeting, attendees enjoyed an interactive and informative discussion on Positive Discipline led by Dr. Jody McVittie of Sound Discipline. Dr. McVittie led parents through thought-provoking exercises to help them understand useful Positive Discipline techniques such as how encouragement helps kids more than praise and how to be both kind and firm. If you weren't able to make it, read the meeting handout at www.bit.ly/2015-TMPTA-PosDis

Other meeting news included Principal May updating attendees on next year's enrollment numbers, news on two March math nights (see the calendar on Page 1), and information on a PTA grant that will provide a technology readiness profile for TM. PTA Board President Tasha Irvine highlighted upcoming school events (including a Seattle Storm night) and explained the process for assembling next year's PTA Board. ## "Roots of Empathy" Taught By Baby Luka

Meghan Kaloper
Counselor's Corner

This year, we decided to pilot the Roots of Empathy program here at Thurgood Marshall. Roots of Empathy is an experiential learning curriculum that focuses on raising levels of empathy and self-awareness. The most unique part of this experience is that all lessons are taught using a baby and his/her parents as a model for understanding attachment, attunement, and empathy. Currently, I'm working on this curriculum with Ms. Powell's class with the help of baby Luka and his parents, Steph and Brian.

We asked the kids what they have learned so far this year from the Roots of Empathy program and here are their insights:

"I learned we have to be careful with a baby."

"I learned that Luka is going to be like us!"

"I'm learning to stop bullying."

"I learned what to do when my sister is mean to me and how to handle it."

"I learned that we need to be kind to each other."

"I learned that things are harder when you are a baby."

"I feel good when baby Luka comes."

Baby Luka playing in a classroom for Roots of Empathy

We hope to expand this program in the future and we look forward to continuing to watch baby Luka grow, change, and develop his skills! For more information about Roots of Empathy, please visit their web site: www.rootsofempathy.org

Slam dunk: (v) To score by putting the ball directly through the basket with one or both hands. (n) A shot made by dunking.

Buzzer beater: A shot taken before the game clock of a quarter expires but that does not go in the basket until after the clock expires and the buzzer sounds.

Benchwarmer: A player who sits on the bench for most if not all of the game.

One-and-one: A free-throw attempt which, if made, allows the player a second free-throw attempt.

Drop a dime: To make an assist without looking.

Granny shot: An underhand shot taken using both hands, usually as a free throw.

Shot clock: A timer designed to increase the pace (and subsequently, the score) by requiring a shot to be released before the timer expires.

Basketball puns aside...YOUR contribution makes a big difference!

Your support of the Annual Giving Fund (AGF) helps our children, teachers and staff every day by paying for resources and programs that the school district doesn't provide. Thank you!

- Capital projects like the installation of overhead projectors in all classrooms.
- 50% of our full-time librarian's salary, ensuring that every child sees Ms. Hudson every week.
- 100% salary support for our school counselor, Ms. Kaloper, who brings social and emotional learning to our classrooms and helps our
- students through ups and downs at school.
- Drama instruction from Seattle Children's Theatre and Seattle Shakespeare Company.
